Now, public needs to decide who is running away," the Home Minister said. Shah further proposed a time frame for the discussion, saying that if the Opposition submitted a written letter to the Speaker by 2 p.m. on Wednesday, the government was prepared to hold the discussion since the House would be in session from 3 pm on Wednesday until 3 pm on Thursday. He said that he would respond to the issues raised by the Opposition by 3 p.m. on Thursday, provided Parliament was allowed to function, and the discussion was taken up. "I will go to the House; I will make it to everyone and appear in front of every political party. The government has nothing to hide. I will go even discuss why they did not want the discussion to happen. I will answer the leadership of the government, under the leadership of Narendra Modi. I am ready to discuss anything they just need to let Parliament function," Shah added.

How sweet are wars!

Are we fed up with the wars that are going on around us? Are we also afraid? Yes, because we are ordinary people. But for some, every war is a celebration. The losses they cause to us as humans and to the world are many times greater than the gains they bring. Just look at the three wars currently going on between Ukraine and Russia, Iran and America, and Israel and Palestine and Israel and America, and you will learn these two things. In fact, wars have always existed, but the extreme loss of life and property caused by them became known to everyone in modern times in the First World War (1914-18). The number of dead and wounded is estimated at 40 million. There are no accounts of property losses. The losses continued in various forms in the post-war period as well. The countries that observed this, including those that fought the wars themselves, pretended to be enlightened. They established an organization called the League of Nations in 1920 to establish peace and security in the world. The world was happy to see that. But that happiness did not last long. Less than 20 years later, World War II broke out in 1939. It lasted until 1945. This time, the number of dead and wounded doubled to 80 million. Other losses are unimaginable. The impact of World War I caused economic collapse and led to a recession (1920-21), which worsened later (1929). It took 1520 years for Europe to recover after World War II. Just like after the First War, those elders were enlightened again after the Second War. They said that the United Nations was being established in 1945 to ensure peace and security in the world, this time stronger than the League of Nations. The Security Council, the International Court of Justice, and various international laws were added to that organization. Seeing that, the world hoped that at least this time, something good might happen. This happiness did not last long. Since then, the wars, big and small, that have taken place and are still taking place are countless. Not to mention the losses. If we look to the future, some new wars are already brewing. Others seem likely to erupt at any moment. Why is all this happening? What are the reasons? Who is responsible? For whose benefit is all this happening? Who will bear the losses? Who wants wars? Who does not want them? Whose desires are there signs of fulfillment? What is the ultimate solution to this problem? Let's return to the three current wars mentioned above. The first is Russia-Ukraine. It began with Russia's invasion and occupation of Ukraine's Crimea in 2014. Immediately after that, the Russian-majority population of Donbass, in eastern Ukraine, began an uprising against the government there. Since then, the conflict has escalated into a full-scale war, escalating to a full-scale war in 2022. In the past four years, Russia has occupied about 80 percent of the territory of Donbass. The war is ongoing. The question is why there is a war. This issue has been discussed repeatedly, so the reasons are known to everyone. However, since the occasion has arisen, it is worth mentioning it briefly.

It is a typical set up for many science fiction thrillers and treasure troves in Hollywood. Despite all familiarity, one can be very sure that Rajamouli will still command the viewers attention and keep them glued to seats with his narration. This has been the biggest strength of his craft all these years. He has already proved several times on how to keep the viewers engrossed despite narrating formulaic stories. Be it Eega, Maryada Ramanna, Yama Donga, Maghadheera, Baahubali, RRR, all films turned out to be blockbusters because of his ability to make them visually appealing, emotionally touching and seamlessly engaging.

On the top of his vision is the strategy to keep audiences well prepared about his stories before coming to the theatres. Letting them know the work premise during promotional interviews, he clears away narrative confusion and allows viewers to immerse themselves entirely in the experience, the character arcs, and the emotional journey built into the world. Similarly, the premise of Vaamash might feel familiar on paper, but, it is Rajamouli's brilliant argument that matters the most, the end of the day.

Ramayana Walking On A Sword With Overseas Rel

The countdown for the grand release of Ranbir Kapoor's epic mythology 'Ramayana' has kicked off last week with the release of an extravagant four minute trailer in multiple languages.

As the Nitesh Tiwari directional is set for a worldwide release, the team has unveiled the English version of the trailer recently. Interestingly, the English trailer has revealed the release date as November 6th, which is two days before the Diwali festival. This has sparked a wide debate among trade circles and moviegoers.

The makers have quickly cleared the confusion and said that the film will release earlier in overseas markets because of practical reasons related to distribution and weekend schedules. The team believes this will help the movie reach global audiences before in a better way without affecting its overall release pattern.

As confirmed earlier, Smallpox will hit the screens also via media on Diwali festival platform falls on November 8th. For a while, it will be screened on television on November 6th in Overseas to cash in on the weekend experience.

Though this is a clever strategy, it will have some challenges that cannot be ignored.

Anupama Sets Instagram On Fire In Stunning Saree Look

Anupama Parameswaran is turning heads with her latest photoshoot, and we can't stop gushing over her effortless charm.

The actress was seen in a stunning maroon print saree with a halter-neck blouse, paired with traditional bangles and a bindi. Shot against a rustic backdrop with natural greenery, the picture came off as a warm, boho-chic affair that perfectly complemented the earthy tones of her outfit.

Anupama's styling once again proved why she is a fan favourite when she went to ethnic fashion, mixing traditional prints with contemporary silhouettes effortlessly.

On the work front, Anupama is all set to explore a new genre in her upcoming film B, a period action drama directed by Sampath. The film also stars Sharwanand and Dimpal Hayathi in key roles and promises an intense storyline set against a historical backdrop, marking a fresh addition to Anupama's filmography.

Actor, Producer & Now Distributor: Multistarrer Oses Yash Taking On Too Much?

Yash is leaving no stone unturned to make Toxic one of the hits of his career. As per the latest update, Yash has decided to distribute the film in Karnataka banner, Monster Mind Creations. The decision is a result of Yash's growing confidence in the film and his desire for greater control. Over the last few months, Yash has secured massive distribution deals across various states. The film has already locked pre-release bookings, creating huge expectations ahead of its release. For Geetu Mohandas, Toxic is a period gangster film featuring Yash in a powerful role. The film has generated a buzz thanks to its unique setting, large-scale production values, and star-studded cast. With the release date set for August 26, industry circles are closely watching Yash's latest business strategy. A top actor turned distributor, he is doing it all for himself. Looking up to expectations, Yash could emerge as one of the few major stars successfully balancing both creative and distribution. Let's see how all this pans out in the days to come.

Mirabai Chanu recalls emotional Glasgow gold after years of setbacks

New Delhi Commonwealth

Games gold medallist Mirabai Chanu opened up on the emotional weight behind the Glasgow triumph during PM Minister Narendra Modi's interaction with India's 2026 medallists, recalling injuries, family problems and disappointment of missing out on a medal at the Paris Olympics that made her podium moment particularly poignant. Chanu, who won gold in the women's 48kg weightlifting category at the Glasgow Games, said the moment she saw the Indian flag rising heard the national anthem after years of setbacks felt too overwhelming to contain her emotions. PM Narendra Modi, while interacting with Chanu, acknowledged the emotion behind her gold-medal performance and told her that the tears themselves reflected the magnitude of her achievement. "You have made every one proud. So many tears were falling. I feel like a girl who is falling from every drop of tears," he said. "I was very happy and emotional on that day. I was very happy.
